

BESPOKE KITCHEN

October 30, 2015

OBSERVER STYLE

DISCOVER FALL HOME & DESIGN TRENDS

NEWS & POLITICS | ART & CULTURE | STYLE | REAL ESTATE | INNOVATION

SUBSCRIBE f in v p g

3 New Brunch Spots to Try This Weekend

Brunch options from mild to wild

By Zachary Weiss • 10/30/15 9:30am

COMMENT

I. BeSpoke Kitchen

BeSpoke Kitchen's Bacon Sampler (Photo: BeSpoke Kitchen).

Chef Franco Barrio launched BeSpoke Kitchen in the West Village last September. Business has been so good that the the chef, formerly behind Casa Mono and Picholine, has opened his West Village eatery for brunch earlier this month using ingredients sourced from within 15 miles of his kitchen. One major highlight is the slew of house-cured meats, which find their way to your table in a number of forms including a to-die-for bacon sampler. Luckily, it also sits just far away enough from the bottomless party brunches in the Meatpacking District, allowing for a more serene weekend dining experience.

<http://observer.com/2015/10/3-new-brunch-spots-to-try-this-weekend/>